QUITS RACE

H. B. FRANKLIN

To my friends of the Eighth Congressional District: I wish to express my sincere thanks for your support and influence in my candidacy as a candidate for Congress in the eighth district. Acting on advice of my supporters during this campaign, I decided to withdraw from the race and I am strongly in favor of Thomas Burchett, Attorney of Ashland, Kentucky, not on account of anything I have against any other candidate but I believe Mr. Burchett to be the logical man for this place. I sincerely hope that my friends will support Mr. Burchett in this race and fight until he gets the nomination.

Yours,
H. B. FRANKLIN

WASHINGTON NOTES

PERSHING

General John J. Pershing, who was seriously ill in Arizona early this year, is at the Walter Reed Hospital, in Washington, for a period of observation and treatment. The General of the World War armies is already making plans for another inspection tour some months hence of World War memorials in France. As head of the American Battle Monuments Commission he has spent much time in Europe. It is understood he will be in the hospital some weeks yet, but Army physicians are said to be surprised at his vitality.

DEFICIT

Preliminary figures indicate that the Treasury, during the fiscal year, which ended last Thursday, collected eighty cents for every one dollar spent by the Government. This is the best showing of the past few years and will probably hold the deficit around $1,400,000,000. Similar figures for other years follow: 1937, 65 cents and $2,707,000,000; 1936, 49 cents and $4,361,000,000; 1935, 56 cents and $3,002,000,000.

BANK DEPOSITS

Deposits in 13,853 banks were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation at the end of 1937. The banks held deposits amounting to about $48,000,000,000 of which insurance protects about $21,000,000,000. Fifty million depositors are more than 98 per cent covered by insurance. Incidentally 11.6 per cent were said to have unsatisfactory or poor management last year. The report shows that the capital of insured banks increased $5,500,000,000 since the banking crisis of 1933. Of this, $3,500,000,000 has been used to write off worthless assets, $500,000,000 to repay all RFC investments, and $1,000,000,000 to pay interest and dividends.

INVESTMENTS

Of $6,691,000,000 of direct American investments abroad, nearly one-third is invested in Canada, a total of $1,936,000,000,000. Cuba is second with $660,000,000, Chile third with $484,000,000, Mexico fourth with $479,000,000, and the United Kingdom fifth with $474,000,000. The study was made by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and the figures do not include "non-controlling foreign investments" such as the minority holdings of investors in foreign bonds. It was estimated however, that $4,204,000,000 had been invested by Americans in such non-controlling securities.

TVA POWER COST

TVA directors, in a report to the President, allocated the $94,125,673 investment on the Wilson, Norris and Wheeler dams, as follows: $49,260,179 was charged to power; $26,294,865 to navigation; and $18,470,627 to flood control. Wilson Dam cost $30,120,000, Norris Dam $31,582,120, and Wheeler Dam, $32,473,542.

NEW SOCIAL EVENT

At 9 o'clock last Friday night some of the young folk of the town felt their appetites rapidly increasing so thinking that Mrs. Nancy Turner's home was a place of culinary art they, with her daughter, Ella, went down and were served with a midnight lunch of fried chicken and ice cream and the other dainties that go with it. Mrs. Turner enjoyed it very much for we all know her ravenous appetite and since she just sat by as a "looker on" while the guests prepared the feast, naturally she would enjoy it. There was some educational value attached to the party, too, since it was something on the order of a domestic science class. The boys proved to have more culinary art than the girls. Herbert (Sugar Babe) Wells dressed the chickens like one who had been an old timer at the job and Lockwood Elam made the delicious ice cream as though he had been in the business for years. Ethel Marie Elam having had a course in Domestic Science at Morehead Teachers College insisted that boys could not make delicious biscuit so she took this task upon herself. Russell Baldwin showed no culinary art but certainly got chickens off the roost like he had been in the habit of going to "chicken roosts" before. When the feast was over Wendell Nickell and Mr. Broome washed dishes like regular dough boys while Asa Morton Nickell swept the floors like an experienced housewife. We doubt if ever the boys did as much manual labor as this before which goes to show there is some good in parties, after all. One of the most enjoyable features of the party was the feminine dignity of the boys as they promaded in and out of the kitchen in their cook aprons. Those present were: Lockwood Elam, Randall Barker, Roy Broome, Earl Pelfrey, Wendell Nickell, Jack Cochran, Russell Baldwin, Asa Morton Nickell, Herbert Wells, Lurline Reed, Sally Pelfrey, Helen Stacy, Ella Ruth Childers, Lucile Nickell, Ethel Marie Elam, Helen Jean Cox, Virginia Nickell and Ella K. Turner.

BUILDING SIDEWALKS

To The Property Owners,
West Liberty, Ky.
We are having so many property owners to inquire about the sidewalks which the NYA is building in West Liberty that I would like to state:
I met with Mr. Hubbard, District Supervisor in his office in Paintsville, Friday, July 1, 1938, and took up the matter of continuing the project of building sidewalks in West Liberty and he said he would extend the time as long as was necessary. At present I am asking that it be extended for four months.
More than 500 feet of walks have been built in the last month. These are being built to meet government specification. The property owners furnish the cement, sand and gravel. The city is turning the forms and the remainder is being done by the NYA. We invite you to inspect those which have been built. The walks will be built in order of applications receive for a certain section or block. Since it would be a loss of time and energy to move from one block to another and back to that block just for one property owner.
At present the order of applications has been: Amos Day's to the courthouse. This is completed, Hemmer Elam—Drexel Moore, Florence McGuire's to Oscar Pelfrey's, Henry Rose—Christian Church, Curran Nickell—Methodist Church, Harlan Murphy—J. V. Henry.
Other streets and property owners please see me and you will be scheduled in order. We appreciate the interest and cooperation of the property owners. BERNARD E. WHITT, NYA Area Supervisor.

Work, Relief and Wealth

We need a new vision in our relief program. Every honest man that wants to work has a right to find some useful employment. In building our work program the plan should outline not only the maximum amount of labor, but the largest amount of wealth created with the appropriation. From the man with the pick and shovel to the district, state, and national representative we need a new vision of this whole program. Too many are thinking in terms of how to put the most days work in a job. What we need to think of is how we can honestly, efficiently and with sound methods get the largest amount of wealth created as a result of our work program. If instead of one street, one bridge or one building, with efficiency and honest effort we could create two or more, America and those on relief themselves would be the gainers thereby. Let's help those who need work, but let's help America by creating wealth. National Grange Monthly Springfield, Mass.

FOOD

Middle-class families in the United States averaged spending between $2 and $3 dollars per person each week for food. The wealthiest fourth and the poorest are not included in the study made by the Bureau of Home Economics, which reports that only about one-seventh families in the $2 per person class are getting first-rate diets and that a third will undermine their health if they continue present buying habits.

Two Killed

Tom Whitt an aged man of Bloomington, who was a brother of the late Bob Whitt of this county, was instantly killed when the automobile in which he was riding went off the road and over an embankment near Salyersville in the night of June 30. The automobile was driven by Cecil Whitt, who is the son of Tom Whitt. Cecil Whitt's wife sustained a broken spine and may die. Her small baby was killed. The cause of the accident has not been learned.

The men guarded a freight car loaded with machine guns and ammunition while the Chinese and Japanese were fighting for possession of the station.

Five hours later, after visits to a half-dozen police stations, they were released by a kindly police sergeant and left on their honeymoon.

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

Since it costs 25 percent more to add an outlet after the job has been completed, wiring the house for electricity should be carefully planned, with consideration to future needs, and with an excess of outlets rather than too few.

Shade and an abundance of good drinking water are two requirements of livestock and poultry during the hot months. Where there are no trees, sheds should be provided for shade. Many farmers are using water tanks made of concrete or other materials.

Late lambs or lambs not ready for market by July 1 should be treated for worms when 10 weeks or three months old and every month thereafter. The whole flock should be treated during the fall and sent into winter free from worms.

Cold milk is a delicious summer drink. Either whole or skimmed, it is exceptionally palatable on a hot day, when properly cold, and serves both as a food and as a drink. Many persons who think they dislike milk, relish it cold in summer.

Close clipping of the lawn in mid-summer may permit the sun to burn out much of the grass. Set the mower to cut as high as possible, and mow the lawn only often enough to keep it from looking unkempt.

Dairy farmers who will need bulls next fall or winter should be looking about for them now, suggests the dairy division of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Do not wait until the last minute and expect to find the bull you want at your price."

SOIL IMPROVEMENT YEAR

With nearly 18,000 tons of triple superphosphate already requested by farmers, in lieu of cash payments earned for soil-building practices in the Agriculture Conservation program, this will be a banner year in soil improvement in Kentucky, declares Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

The 18,000 tons of phosphate already ordered, with the year only half gone, compares to a total of 19,500 tons used in 1937. Dean Cooper predicted that 30,000 tons of triple superphosphate may be used in Kentucky this year.

Last year, which was the greatest year to date in soil improvement, more than 2,000,000 acres of grasses and legumes were seeded, following applications of 820,000 tons of lime materials and the 19,500 tons of triple superphosphate, which had a fertilizing value equal to 55,000 tons of ordinary phosphate.

Included in the soil-building seedings were 832,000 acres of lespedeza, 573,000 acres of mixtures, 195,000 acres of orchard grass and redtop, 22,000 acres of bluegrass, 10,000 acres of alfalfa, 27,000 acres of winter legumes, 277,000 acres of green manure crops, several thousand acres of miscellaneous legumes and several hundred acres of orchard mulch and of forest trees.

Last year Kentucky farmers earned more than 76 percent of their soil-building allowance, Dean Cooper pointed out, compared to 65 percent in 1936. He expects them to earn a still bigger percentage this year, judging from the way they are ordering superphosphate and making use of other soil-building allowances is concerned, was made in Carroll county, where farmers earned 90 1/2 percent of their total allowance. In 1937 they earned 54 percent of their allowance.

The second best record in percentage of soil-building allowance earned last year was 89, made by farmers in Oldham county. Farmers in Mercer and Simpson counties earned more than 87 percent of their allowances, while in Clay and Bourbon counties the percentage earned was more than 86.

Approximately 120,000 Kentucky

farmers last year earned $4,000,000, in round numbers, in soil-building allowances. Christian county farmers earned $99,880, Bourbon county farmers, $96,832, and Hardin county farmers, $90,964.

Dean Cooper said he was highly pleased with the amount of soil-improvement work done in the eastern counties of the state. Amounts earned in some counties last year were: Bath, $33,360; Clay, $29,279; Carter, $21,497; Elliott, $19,111; Breathitt, $17,345; Owsley, $17,227; and Perry, $21,121.

MILLIONS IN EGGS

The 11 million chickens on Kentucky farms produce nearly 40 million dozen eggs a year, worth almost $6,000,000, according to figures presented at the 14th annual short course for poultry raisers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The course offered a week's intensive training in poultry breeding, feeding, control of diseases and parasites, the operation of hatcheries, judging, exhibition, and the marketing of poultry products. The attendance this year included 128 men and women from 38 Kentucky counties and from Ohio, Illinois, Tennessee and Arkansas.

We think all thoughtful Americans will agree that it never was more necessary than it is now to reiterate the eternal truths of religion to the rising generation. Shelbyville has the name of having the best lot, and a lot of the best husbands in the world. There comes additional reasons for treating them a little better at home. Big business announces that it does not care to employ and will not employ, if it knows it, men who are not happy at home, because they are not well treated there. They prefer men who have nothing to be worried about, and no worry to distract or divert their minds from their business. We have no quarrel with those who take and read a good, clean city daily, but everybody owes it to his home community to support his local newspaper, which is such a large factor in making the home town and the country surrounding it a good place to live. There is also much to be done in supporting the local paper in advertising patronage. It is surprising how little appreciation is shown the local newspaper in an advertising way. Farmers especially can often utilize the advertising columns of the local paper to sell or locate for purchase what they wish to buy but do not know where to find. Do not overlook the local newspaper. You need it and it needs your support.—The Auburn Times.

PRESIDENT ON RADIO

The President of the United States went on the radio last Friday night, giving his impressions of legislation adopted by the recent Congress, as well as his outlook, economically and politically. He said that no extra session would be called by him unless some emergency arose.

The President said the Congress just adjourned was the most responsive to the will of the people of any that had convened since the World War, heaping his praise on it for adopting a wages and hours bill, which he asserted puts a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours. The President expressed regret that the reorganization bill, advocated by him, had not been passed, and that no action was obtained on railroad legislation urged by him to cure an emergency.

He said that the present recession had been caused by mistakes of capital, mistakes of labor and mistakes of government. He thought, of course, that capital's mistake was the greatest, and took a crack at Mr. Sloan for the latter's recent criticism of the wages and hours bill. The President said the Supreme Court issue might be described as a lost battle which won the war, citing the fact that since he delivered his now-famous Court message to Congress in February, 1937, the court's opinions had been greatly liberalized. He praised the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company for announcing a cut in steel prices without a cut in wages, and employed his customary phrases of sympathy and concern for the "bottom" man.

Defending his right to participate in primaries, he said that he wanted liberals to be chosen to Congress, but issued a warning against radicals. Throughout his speech ran this vein of thought, that it is the government's business to run the people, rather than the people's business to run the government; that the government shall tell them what to plant and what to pay, and solve their individual problems for them.—Elizabethtown News.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

"The Only Hope"

"The so-called depression beginning in 1929 and existing to a greater or lesser extent to the present time, was a breakdown of all economic power. The government was not reaching the great masses of the people. It was stopped and the profits went into the coffers of a very few persons. Anything which brings about relief for the great mass of the people is neither Communist nor radical nor red. It is the only hope on earth for a democracy."—Senator William E. Borah in the United States Senate.

POORLY. THANK THE LORD

Much good sympathy is wasted on people who are sick or in trouble, for a large percentage of us like to be martyrs and would not trade our troubles for any amount of happiness. Boys with ailments are down-right envied by the other fellows. Think of the value, socially, of having a stone bruise or a stumped-off-toenail. It is almost as good for a youngster as to have survived a major operation is for a grown-up. It is true that people who are injured or have suffered are supposed to develop a philosophy and to value things that they have experienced and things that they have missed. A boy with a dirty rag around a toe or with his arm in a sling does not seem to develop any philosophy; he already has one and can strut around as if he were really to be envied. Of course, he may have cried like a baby when he got hurt, but to hear him brag about it afterwards, one would imagine him the sort of philosopher that we read about but seldom see. Fortunately, ever after some wound or other disaster the boy does not lament his hard luck but thinks of his heroism under adversity and pats himself, figuratively, on the back.

And that reminds me of grown boys and girls that take a delight, like Othello and other brave men, in recounting the dangers they have passed. Some of us like to give the impression that we barely escaped martyrdom a thousand times. A feeling of self-pity creeps over many of us, for we can think of our childhood only in terms of our grown-up philosophy. When we compare our present comforts with what we once so sadly lacked, we wonder how we pulled through. If our days were now so lacking in material things as they once were, we feel that we could not live through them. All of us forget how full those old days were and how little time was left to lament our not being something else.

Everything that we met was new and became for us a source of experience and thrill. Getting in wood or slopping pigs or plowing through the newground did take some energy and muscular strength, but they were sandwiched in between other experiences that were and are pure poetry. Probably the reason some people think of childhood as a pure delight is that, as we grow older, somehow the rough edges wear off things, especially our hardships as children; we remember only the romantic phases of what must have been sheer drudgery. The broken arm, the stone-bruised foot, the aching tooth now seem far away and perfectly harmless; anyway, they probably did not hurt the boy as much as they would have hurt a grown-up. To be the envy of the neighborhood for a few days or a few weeks was worth a fall out of an apple tree or a splitting open of the foot with an ax.

There used to be a saying, "Poorly, thank the Lord," that was ascribed to old darkies when they were asked about their health. One old uncle said that this meant that he was thankful not to be sick; being poorly was, relatively, a better condition than being sick in bed. But this saying has deeper and darker meanings when one considers how a little illness, particularly when a hospital or a trained nurse is involved, may give the poorly one a free course to discuss, even to nauseating details, all the envied aches and pains that one has met and conquered.—Kentucky Folklore Series.

200,000

The new Wage and Hour law, it is estimated, will mean more pay to about 200,000 wage earners. If business improves and reaches the last summer stage, this figure will be increased by 60,000. It is estimated also, that if conditions improve, more than one million workers will find their hours shortened by the forty-four hour limit.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

"I believe in giving a student in college a general knowledge of life and then letting that student reach his own conclusion." That is what a modernistic college professor said recently. This, like many statements made by modernistic educators, sounds very good but will not stand the test of logical analysis. When the editor studied logic in college he was taught that a conclusion cannot be correct if the premise is wrong. The modernists are giving the young people the wrong premises. It is, therefore, no wonder that millions of American young people have reached the wrong conclusions and have gone on the rocks, morally and spiritually. These modernistic school teachers talk a great deal about academic freedom and the quest for truth. Usually people like that want someone to provide a class room in which they can disseminate their modernistic poison. A thing is not necessarily true because it is old, but, as a rule, the things that have stood the test of time have value. "My first effort is to unsettle every student who enters my class room." That is what a "smart-aleck" school teacher said some time ago. That is exactly what the devil did to Eve in the garden. He unsettled her that has been the business of the devil all down the centuries. Sometimes it is necessary to dig through soft dirt down to a solid foundation if we are to build a house that will stand. It is true that young people have sometimes learned things that are not true and it is necessary to remove some rubbish, but the modernistic crowd is endeavoring to destroy the foundations. If the foundation goes, then the house of character goes too. Beware of teachers who talk much about academic freedom! All that type whom I have ever known are modernists. Never in my life have I found a real genuine fundamentalist who was complaining about a lack of academic freedom.

Recently, thousands of young people from colleges and universities returned to their homes. Many of these have been saying radical things to their parents. It is a great consolation to the writer to know that all the students who came to Bob Jones College last year have gone back to their parents with a firmer Christian faith than they had when they left home. There is no substitute for Christian faith. It is a good thing to live by, and it sustains men in a dying hour. The man who is prepared to die any time in this world. So, after all, preparation for dying is about the best preparation one can make for life here in this world. The people in our communities who are ready to go home to heaven any moment are mighty good people to have with us here in this world. The Christian religion works even on earth. A modernistic educator said, "The Bob Jones College is a good camp-meeting." This was said contemptuously. A recent survey showed that every graduate of our institution has a good position and is a successful leader in his or her chosen field. So, it seems to me, when you stop to consider that there are multiplied thousands of graduates from modernistic institutions who are out of jobs, that the "camp-meeting college" is producing practical results. After all, it seems Jesus was right when He said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." God first does not mean that life is thrown out of proportion. God first means that everything else naturally takes its proper place. Motherhood, fatherhood, home life, business affairs, everything gets into order when God has first place in a human life. God first would solve the problems of government, the problems of business, and the problems of the individual.

BIRTHDAY DINNER AND REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Adams had a family reunion at their Water street home Saturday. The children present were: Mrs. Willie Short of Preston, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Griggs and Roger Adams of California, Robert, Norma Jean and Miss Christine at home. Oren of Winchester was unable to be present.

They had a fine chicken dinner. There were two lovely cakes with candles as it was the red letter day for both Norma Jean and Mr. Griggs. We wish them many returns of the day.

Mrs. Adams' brother, Wascom Elam of Liberty Road, was in town and enjoyed the happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mathis, who have been visiting Mrs. Henry Cole and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Paulbee, returned to their home at Gray's Knob Wednesday.

FARM TOPICS

HUMOR BIRDS FOR POULTRY PROFITS

Catering to Hens' Whims Is Found Good Plan.

By H. H. Ains, Poultry Extension Specialist, University of Illinois, WSC Service.

It will pay poultry producers to learn how hens behave like human beings. Whims in poultry behavior can be noticed in fowls just as easily as they can be in human beings, and in many cases they are likely to be similar.

Although there is a difference of opinion as to whether human whims should be catered to, the successful poultryman knows that for good egg production, poultry whims cannot be overlooked.

For instance, putting fresh feed in a feed hopper for poultry works just about the same as putting fresh bread on the table for the family meal—it usually results in increased consumption. A feeder which requires frequent filling is a distinct advantage, since the frequent filling encourages egg production.

Just as humans dislike water that has been heavily chlorinated, so hens will turn up their noses at water which has been polluted with some pill or powder. Such a practice is likely to result in low water consumption and low egg production.

The more appetizing the water, the greater will be its probable effect on egg production. When it is cold it will pay to keep water warm as well as clean.

To many people a dessert makes a meal complete and often helps to make up for any shortcomings of the main course. Judging by their reactions to a moist mash feeding once a day, poultry would agree that such a feeding serves them well as a dessert. Many flock owners resort to moist feeding as a means of feeding some of the vitamin and mineral concentrates such as cod liver oil, sardine oil and milk products.

Hens also react favorably to clean surroundings. When clean litter is substituted for dirty litter, there is much singing and scratching which helps increase egg production.

Electric Farm Fence Is Regarded as Dangerous

It is extremely dangerous for anyone unfamiliar with the principles of electricity to experiment with the electric fence, says Harry L. Garver, investigator in rural electrification at Washington State college.

Electric fences operated by storage batteries and properly constructed by expert electricians will give safe service. But it is never advisable for the amateur to attempt to build his own equipment, Garver says.

In all probability, it would not meet safety approval, thereby making the owner liable for any damage that might be done by it, he added.

While it is possible to build electric fences that are connected with the home wiring circuit, this practice is not encouraged; there is too much danger of unskilled persons making the wrong connection and sending the full charge through the fence. It is believed advisable to post warning signs on all electric fences.

Nests for R. I. Reds

A nest for a Rhode Island Red hen should be from 12 to 15 inches square and about 12 inches high. One nest of this type must be provided for every four or five hens in the flock. The dark front nest with an entrance from the rear is coming into general use. It avoids egg eating and losses from pick-outs. The "community type" of nest is a favorite with many poultrymen. It has the same general construction but is built without partitions dividing it into individual nests. This nest may be six or eight feet in length with a four-inch board in front to retain the litter.

Hardware Bad for Cows

Hardware has its very important place in our scheme of farm operation, but baling wire, nails, bits of steel, etc., lodged inside Bossy's body are bad medicine. Just a few precautions are mentioned by Hoard's Dairyman: Account for all baling wire from hay, straw, or shavings used in the cow barn. Unwind the wire, do not chop it in two. Stage a continual pick-up of wire, nails, etc. Do not mend stanchions with wire. If a nail is missed while making a repair about the feed alley, find it. Outlaw the steel brush around the feed department.

Feeding the Hens

The feed for hens depends upon several factors. First, the development of the bird; second, the rate of production; third, the condition of the house in which the birds are kept; and fourth the amount of mash the birds consume daily. You cannot weigh out the scratch grain. The only way is to feed them what they will eat up clean, giving them all they wish at night, when they should go to roost satisfied and with full crops.

The Popcorn Man

by LAWRENCE HAWTHORNE

I'd like t' be the Popcorn Man! He rides around all day— An' makes a lot o' money, too. 'Cause all the children pay For popcorn, peanuts, ice cream cones An' candy, gum an'—Well, Whatever else a Popcorn Man Is hopin' he can sell!

I bet it's lots o' fun t' blow A whistle all day long— An' I'd fix up a siren, too. An' prob'ly a gong. I'd use 'em all in every block! The big folks might get mad, But all the kids along the street, You bet, would sure be glad!

An' here's the best: When I got home, I'd give myself a treat; I'd say, "Jus' help yourself, my boy, To all that you can eat!" You see, I'd never need t' spend A nickel or a dime— An' golly, that's what any guy Would call a darn good time!

WRIGLEY

July 5.—I have often wondered what the world would be without birds. The bright summer days would be silent and lonesome, without a cheery chirp or whistle to make the day seem alive. More than that, insects would increase at such a rate that we would soon be overwhelmed by their ever-increasing numbers. Without birds the whole of nature would be thrown completely off balance, out of order, and yet boys will continue to kill our most helpful allies for mere fun, with no return but momentary pleasure to them. It would behoove every good citizen of Morgan County to put a stop to this wanton slaughter. It will pay in the long run.

For the first four innings Herman Brown, our pitcher, gave an excellent exhibition of good pitching, but due to a sore arm, caused by the game he had pitched the day before, he soon tired. The hitting was also good for the first four innings, runs being brought in by Bert Rathoff, Flavio Wells, and Mervil Whitt brought in two, one of which was a home run. In the 5th inning Campton brought in twelve runs and continued their good work for the rest of the game.

Harold Johnson, who is in the CCC camp at Morehead, was home for the Fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fisher were visited by relatives last week. BUCK

If You're Planning To Build

THE KITCHEN—The Kitchen in the modern house is, in many respects, the most important room in the house. This is especially true in cases where a servant is not employed and where the mistress of the house must attend the cooking, laundry work, and the many other domestic duties. In such instances the mistress must spend a large part of her time in the kitchen, hence this room should be made as convenient and attractive as possible. The kitchen should be reached by a separate entrance where tradesmen can deliver supplies and packages. If there is a basement there should be convenient access to the stairs.

Kitchen Devices—Devices for convenience and ease in performing the operations of the kitchen should be installed whenever possible. Electric ranges, refrigerators, dishwashers and other labor-saving machines should be thoughtfully considered. Ironing boards, apron closets, broom closets, tables, step-ladder chairs, cabinets for miscellaneous foods and spaces for all kitchen utensils can be attractively arranged. Good light should be provided and a pleasant outlook from the windows is most desirable.

A breakfast nook in the kitchen or directly connected with it, is a great step saver, and is convenient for simple meals. A kitchen should not be so large as to require a great deal of walking about by the one performing the cooking and serving of meals. It is important to install a great many electric outlets, for new devices are being invented rapidly.

Skull of Dinosaurs

In dinosaurs, as in mammals, the skull is not a single bone, but a group of bones which come together in the process of growth until they form a solid covering for the brain.
